ALL-NEW die cast takes a cruise down memory lane

Forged in History, Iconic in Design

An American classic that captured the essence of a breezy and thrill-a-minute driving experience, the 1958 Ford Fairlane 500 Sunliner Convertible was a vehicle ahead of its time. Derived from the Dearborn, Michigan "Fair Lane" estate of Ford Motor Company founder Henry Ford, the iconic open-top vehicle represented something beyond luxury and performance. It defined the spirit of its time. And generations later, the Sunliner continues to be celebrated as a symbol of automotive style and innovation.

Accentuating Excellence

Called a "masterpiece in motion" by vintage car collectors, the 1958 Ford Fairlane 500 Sunliner Convertible was known for its eye-catching design that embraced many of the automotive trends of the late 1950s.

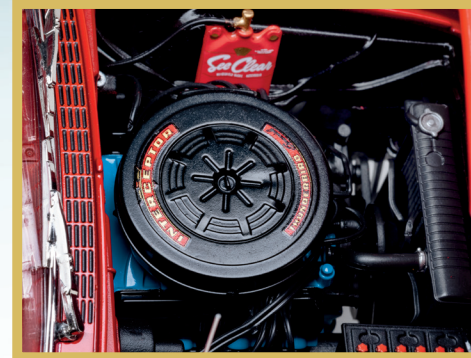

With its bold styling, sculpted body lines, distinctive grille, quad headlights, prominent fins, chrome accents, power-operated convertible top, interior comforts and other eye-catching details, it stood out from the pack at every turn.

Performance Beyond the Ordinary

Providing a precise balance of speed and power, this iconic Sunliner boasted a robust 332 Interceptor V8 beneath the hood. The high-performance 332 cubic inch, 5.4-liter engine cranked out a whopping 240 horsepower and 360 lb-ft of torque—impressive numbers for its era.

Driving Nostalgia Home

Now is your chance to take home this rare piece of American automotive history with the new "1958 Ford Fairlane 500 Sunliner" 1:18-Scale Die Cast, a museum-quality showpiece tooled with all the distinguishing features of this classic convertible.
